29 .- Hogs-The receipts of hogs to-day were the largest of the week, but at that not really liberal and hardly equal to the average expected ! at this time in the week. The market opened with only a fair request from outside sources and, in keeping with reports from other places, packers were offering lower prices. Their bids, however, were by no means unreasonable, and, being disposed to buy rather freely, salesmen not long in making concessions, and the early market, notwithstanding the limited competition, was fairly active at an average decline of fully se in prices, with occasional sales show-ing possibly 10c decline. Shippers finally bought several loads of hogs, but their support in the market was much smaller than it has been for several days. There is a continued inclination to favor the good medium to heavy hogs, but there was a very fair outlet for light grades ous record, there being an increase, however, at the decline. Kingan & Co., who were comparatively liberal buyers and took a very large ern packing, 620,000, compared with 580,000 the proportion of the morning receipts, finally appreceding week, and 595,000 two weeks ago. parently became weary in well-doing, and on the were probably right around 5c lower than the opening and generally 10c lower than yesterday. As usual heretofore this week, there was very good variety of cattle represented, but clads that were good enough to sell around top rices in their class were not plentiful. market opened practically with no trading in the steer department, except for a few odd bunches. There was very fair competition between buyers, however, for the good female butcher cattle, and sales generally were re ported fully steady compared with yesterday. Occasionally, however, salesmen reported prices in this department only steady, and a few be lieved they sold a shade lower. From repre entative sales, however, it does not appear that there was any material change in values compared with yesterday. There was only a fair request for feeding cattle, and this was principally from professional buyers who paid bout steady or a shade lower prices than heretofore this week. The bull market was reported steady, and the calf market opened with a few ales at about yesterday's prices, but later ransactions were usually about 50c lower, with being considered the top price. It was in the day before the steers commenced to move, and salesmen were finally forced to accept about 10c less than yesterday for all except possibly the choice light butcher steers, and they, at least in some cases, were Continued declines in prices the past few days have now practically wiped out all of the gain made the early part of this week, and for the most part the steers to-day sold about same as a week ago, but probably not quite Practically all salesmen claimed that rices to-day were conservatively 25c lower than the early part of the week for steers. Local Jobbers Advanced Bleached Sheetings 1-4 to 1-2 Cent Yesterday-Eggs Continue Strong.

The rising tendency of the cotton market is felt again in the local dry goods market. The South Meridian-street jobbers yesterday advanced their prices of bleached sheetings from 1/4 to 14 cent. The general dry goods market is strong and continued advances in the cotton and sheeting lines, and higher prices for calicoes are ex-810 2.00 | pected with the approach of spring. The strength of the dry goods market does not tend in east to slacken the general demand, and the leading houses say the volume of trade is increasing each week. EGGS CONTINUE STRONG. The local egg market continues strong. The past two days of milder weather have not yet affected the receipts to any extent, and the demand is considerably in excess of the present volume of supplies. One dealer on Commission Row said he could have sold fresh eggs at 30 or 32 cents easily yesterday if he had had them, but at the same time there is a general feeling of uncertainty toward the market, and the price is holding below the figure really warranted by the demand because it is the general opinion that as soon as receipts increase again the market will be easier. The strength this week has been due to the weather preventing hucksters from getting over the country except to a very limited extent. Poultry and Other Produce.
